

IT MIGHT BE TODAY

Skyfall

I read or listen to the news with a Christian worldview and, especially, an ear for how things are corroborating centuries old Bible prophecies regarding the last days. Each week I present my findings as a Prophecy Update.

An asteroid the size of a city block will pass by Earth this weekend. Lately there have been lots of 'signs' in the heavens.

There are numerous references to unusual signs and wonders in the heavens found throughout Scripture.

Luke 21:25-26, for example, states: “And there will be signs in sun and moon and stars, and on the earth distress of nations in perplexity because of the roaring of the sea and the waves, people fainting with fear and with foreboding of what is coming on the world. For the powers of the heavens will be shaken.”

In the Old Testament, Joel 2:30-31 says: “And I will show wonders in the heavens and in the earth, blood, and fire, and pillars of smoke. The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before the great and the terrible day of the LORD come.”

Many other prophecies in both the New and Old testaments contain similar passages.

On February 15, the same day that a large asteroid passed some 18,000 miles from the Earth's surface, an unrelated explosion above the Chelyabinsk region of Russian released an estimated 500 kilotons of energy – the force of about 30 Hiroshima atomic bombs, according to news reports.

The impact was detected by sensors operated by the nuclear-watchdog International Monitoring System as far as Antarctica, over 9,000 miles away.

Contrary to early reports of a meteor shower, Russian officials and scientists said the blast – the largest infrasound event recorded in history – was caused by a single 10,000-ton meteor burning up in the lower atmosphere.

After the massive explosion over the Ural Mountains region at least 1,000 injuries were reported. Thousands of buildings were also reported damaged.

On February 16, the Associated Press, citing state-run media outlets, reported that Cuba experienced a similar, albeit smaller, meteor that also shook buildings and left residents bewildered.

Another major event happened over the skies of Southern California on February 22, when a giant streak of light prompted dozens of eyewitness to file reports with the American Meteor Society.

A few days before that, numerous witnesses reported a meteor over Florida's Eastern coast, according to press reports. Video of the event captured by startled onlookers was run by local media outlets.

Operations Manager Mike Hankey with the American Meteor Society says, "The number of meteor sightings filed with the AMS has been increasing over the last few years and also the last few months." AMS is currently working on a statistical analysis of the data to try to explain the increase.

Starting February 1, when a bright fireball soared over the Dallas, Texas, area, NASA made some interesting conclusions.

"This month, some big space rocks have been hitting Earth's atmosphere," Bill Cooke with NASA's Meteoroid Environment Office said on the agency's website. "There have been five or six notable fireballs that might have dropped meteorites around the United States."

What really has scientists and researchers baffled, NASA said, is the extraordinary appearance and trajectory of the recent meteor events.

"These fireballs are particularly slow and penetrating," explained meteor expert and University of Western Ontario physics Professor Peter Brown.

"They hit the top of the atmosphere moving slower than 15 kilometers per second, decelerate rapidly, and make it to within 50 kilometers of Earth's surface," he added.

Also during the month of February, the Huffington Post and other major media outlets tracked a number of seemingly credible UFO reports out of Oregon, Florida and Australia.

In recent years, the number of apparently unexplained UFO sightings documented by the mainstream media seems to have soared. From Jerusalem and Moscow to Mexico City, Norway and all across China, the number of bizarre flying objects and celestial events dazzling witnesses without rational explanation is seemingly exploding.

Meteors have always fallen. UFO's are nothing new. Nevertheless, Jesus said that the last days would be accompanied by signs in the heavens. Put them together with the other trends we see and it becomes clear the stage is being set for the Great Tribulation and the Second Coming of Jesus.

If Jesus were to come right now, are you ready? If not, get ready, then stay ready and keep looking up. Ready or not, Jesus is coming.
