

IT MIGHT BE TODAY

"Palm Reader"

Week-after-week for the past seven years we have presented a weekly Prophecy Update.

According to estimates by scholars, somewhere between two-thirds and three-fourths of the nearly 2500 prophecies in the Bible have been fulfilled to the letter.

We therefore expect the remaining, last days prophecies to be literally fulfilled.

Since that is the case, we should be able to look at news and trends in the world and see things lining up for their fulfillment. And we do.

Even nonbelievers have heard of the Mark of the Beast. They can tell you it has something to do with a person being identified by something - a mark or a chip or a tattoo - in or on their hand or forehead. It will be a means of identification, as well as the only way a person will be able to transact their daily business.

A lot of our updates revolve around the technologies that not only exist, but are in use, that sound a lot like the sort of thing the Bible predicted over 2000 years ago, but have only very recently been developed.

The latest news comes from an article I read at techcrunch.com titled, Biometric Startup Quixter Demos Pay-By-Palm Tech

Excerpts:

Swedish startup Quixter... is the brainchild of Fredrik Leifland, an engineering student at Lund University, who wanted to come up with a quicker system for making card payments that did away with... fishing cards out of wallets [or carrying smart phones].

The Quixter system uses vein-scanning technology to identify the individual – based on the unique vein-pattern in an individual’s palm — deducting payment from their previously linked bank account.

“We’re working with all major swedish banks at the moment,” says Leifland.

Vein-scanning technology is not new in itself. It’s been incorporated into ATMs by banks in Japan (and elsewhere) for several years, as a way to provide another layer of security for large transactions. However Quixter’s Leifland claims no one else has launched a payments system leveraging the palm – ergo, he says his startup is first to market.

<http://techcrunch.com/2014/04/14/quixter/>

Quixter is not the Mark of the Beast. No technology, biometric or otherwise, is the Mark.

The "mark" is when the future world leader we know as the antichrist demands that everyone who is already participating in a global economy utilizing technology swears allegiance to him.

No one takes the "mark" inadvertently by participating in vein scanning, or by swallowing a microchip, or by being electronically tattooed. It will involve a conscious decision to reject Jesus Christ in favor of the antichrist.

We trust all the prophecies and the promises of God. One of those is that Jesus will return imminently to resurrect the dead believers of the church age, and that when He does He will also rapture living believers off of the earth. We will be changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, and be transported to Heaven.

Are you ready for the rapture? If not, get ready, stay ready, and keep looking up. Ready or not, Jesus is coming!